

NO SUBURBAN FRINGE

D. RIPLEY JACKSON WANTS GLENDALE TO CONTINUE TO BE A REAL TOWN

When asked why he opposed the annexation of Glendale to Los Angeles, D. Ripley Jackson explained that although he had lived here a comparatively short time he had looked into the matter quite thoroughly and had satisfied himself that Los Angeles could offer nothing to offset the disadvantages. He cited his experience in having electric installations made in a house he owns in Hollywood. The Glendale man wanted to do the work could not take the contract because he did not have a Los Angeles license and the Los Angeles contract cost him almost double the sum he would have had to pay in Glendale, due to the higher vocational licenses charged there by the building requirements and restrictions, which we will promptly discover, if we annex, and which will tend to discourage building. It costs enough now under our simple local requirements owing to the high cost of labor and material, but it will cost much more if we have to support the army of inspectors employed to carry out the elaborate system of building regulations developed for Los Angeles.

Then, too, as a business man he feared annexation. At the present time Glendale has an attractive and prosperous business center catering to the local needs. These merchants are protected by a moderate local license which deters a good many Los Angeles concerns from trying to do business here for they must pay a high license to do business in their own city. Under annexation the local license would be superseded by a very much higher one which would at the same time leave them exposed to the unrestricted competition of Los Angeles concerns seeking to extend their trade. It could not fail, in Mr. Jackson's opinion, to cripple local trade, and that in his judgment is the reason why so few prosperous looking business places are to be seen at Edendale and in many other residence communities which have been made a part of Los Angeles. He said he would be sorry to see Glendale shrink from a real town to the suburban fringe of Los Angeles.

MID-SUMMER COMMUNION SERVICE AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Twilight Communion Service was observed yesterday evening at 7:00 o'clock in the Presbyterian Church. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, assisted by Rev. Theo. Hopping, officiated, with fourteen elders in their places for service. New members were received and welcomed. At the morning service the pastor preached a preparatory sermon, on "The Cross and the Advent." "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till He come." Thursday evening the reception to new members will be held on the lawn of the High School grounds.

HOOSIER DAY

The annual basket picnic of the Indiana State Society is to be held on the picnic grounds in the southwest corner of Exposition Park, Vermont and Leighton avenues, Los Angeles, Saturday, July 26th. There will be swimming pools, swings and lawns to be enjoyed by old and young, and tables under the trees for spreading the lunch. Coffee will be furnished free to all who purchase badges. County registers will be posted through the grounds to enable visitors to find their friends. The main address of the afternoon program will be made by Dr. George F. Board, President of U. S. C., who is a Hoosier.

ELECTRIFIED WATER

GLENDAL FIRM IN THE FIELD WITH NEW PROCESS FOR PURIFYING WATER

The Henry-Brown Company has recently installed in the Soft Drink Manufactory at Isabel and Wilson avenue, a complicated piece of machinery for electrifying water for drinking purposes. It is a new process and has been used with marked success in other cities. Impurities and disease germs, should there be any, are removed from the water which still retains its life by the preserving of the salts and compounds the system must have to insure good health. No chemical or substance of any kind is added to the water. It is all done with high voltage electricity. The news of the installation of this process by the Henry-Brown Co. will be especially timely at the present moment and this firm is to be commended for its enterprise.

TO COLORADO BY AUTO

MR. AND MRS. OLIN SPENCER TO LEAVE THURSDAY FOR CENTENNIAL STATE

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Spencer of 437 West Broadway will start Thursday on an overland auto tour to Western Colorado. Their objective will be Montrose, where their daughter, Mrs. Martin, lives. It will probably be a couple of months before Glendale sees them again. The trip will be made by easy stages and they will spend seven to ten days on the road, camping by the way. An Overland car which has been equipped for a journey of that sort will be their vehicle and they are going by the Arrowhead Trail. Mr. Spencer has interviewed a Mr. Young who recently arrived with his wife and family from Montrose, Colo., to visit friends in Van Nuys. They came by the Santa Fe trail and had a trip through deep mud and over rough roads which was very hard on them and on their machine. Mr. Spencer is figuring to avoid their difficulties.

RETURNING TO KANSAS CITY

Mrs. Edward R. Callender and her daughter, Miss Louise Callender, of Kansas City, who are house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable of 505 South Columbus avenue, were entertained yesterday and today by Mr. and Mrs. Green, also of Kansas City, who have taken a house at Santa Monica for a month. The Greens and Callenders have cottages which are side by side at one of the suburbs of Kansas City, and they are therefore very well acquainted. Mrs. Callender and daughter are planning to leave for home the middle of the week if they can get reservations. They have been much entertained by their friends since they came to California and have done considerable sight seeing. They will probably come again.

SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE WORKERS

Dr. Charles H. Scott returned from Asilomar and spent most of last week at home, occupying his own pulpit at the Sunday evening service. In the morning he preached at the First Methodist Church of Hollywood, of which his mother and sisters are members. Today he goes to Huntington Beach where the Sunday School Institute, of which he is one of the faculty, will open. He will be responsible for the morning watch hour from 6:30 to 7:30 at which he will give a series of addresses on "The Hungers of the Human Heart." He will also direct the hour of fun in the early evening preceding the serious program, which is a time of general hilarity. There will be quite an attendance from Glendale, especially from Dr. Scott's own church. Mrs. Charles Starkey and her entire class of about twelve girls have taken a tent and will camp at the beach during the institute. Mrs. Ingledue and children will be there, also the young people of the Charles E. Byrkit family and the Alton M. Brooks family.

SECURED A HOUSE AT LAST

Oscar Whitaker's wife and baby have been visiting Mrs. Whitaker's parents in El Centro all summer and they gave up the house they were renting during that time. For the past two weeks Oscar has been vainly hunting a place to rent, wishing to return to Glendale to live and was about to think he was crowded out when the Bryant home at 361 Vine was advertised for rent as the family is moving to San Francisco. Oscar made a running jump and secured it before anyone else got to it.

ANTI-ANNEXATION MEETING

At this meeting articles and by-laws will be adopted, and a permanent organization formed. It is important that all citizens of Glendale who favor remaining in an independent municipality be present and do their bit in completing this organization.

RACE RIOTS RESUMED IN WASHINGTON

NEGROES FIRE FROM AUTOMOBILES AT SOLDIERS IN THE GROUNDS OF THE NAVY HOSPITAL

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Following two nights of fighting between whites and negroes on Washington streets, trouble was resumed this afternoon. Five negroes dashed past the navy hospital in an automobile shortly after noon today and fired many shots at sailors in the grounds. None of the shots hit. Citizens commandeered automobiles and followed them but the negroes escaped after a wild chase. Numerous reports of negroes shooting in near-by Maryland towns were received but no damage appears to have been done.

Major Pullman, head of the Washington police, is planning to ask the war department for military reinforcements to preserve order. Until this afternoon no shots had been fired in the rioting although approximately a hundred persons had been injured in fist fights.

AS OF YORE

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN S. S. CONDUCTED IN OLD STYLE AS AN OBJECT LESSON

All the pupils and teachers of the Central Christian Bible School were crowded into the main auditorium Sunday morning for the opening exercises which were conducted by John M. Ray, superintendent for the day, along the lines of 25 years ago. During the study hour the men's and women's Bible classes were combined as formerly, and the primary department was located back of the rostrum. After the study hour the lesson was reviewed as in former times when all used the same study. The whole service showed by contrast the great advance made in the past few years, with graded lessons and departmental separation under competent superintendents and not a person present was heard to declare that the old way was the best.

In the morning worship hour, Edgar Lloyd Smith, who is superintendent of Bible School work in the Christian Churches of Southern California, preached from the texts, "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth," and "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." He emphasized the vital need for training of the young in Bible Schools, for if given the proper religious training there they will not depart from it when they grow to mature years.

In the evening Mr. Smith spoke again along the same lines, from the subject, "The Program of Divine Husbandry," using the parable of the sower as a background. He said there were just three elements to consider in both divine and material husbandry—the sower, the seed and the soil. No one of them is independent of the others, but all are of equal importance. He laid special stress on the responsibility of the teacher, who should be just as solicitous regarding the sowing of the seed, the "word of God" in the soil, the pupil's heart, as is the farmer in selecting his seed and choosing the proper soil. The teacher who is not careful along these lines should be dispensed with. The entire sermon was most instructive especially to teachers and prospective teachers in the Bible School.

HER BRAYS ARE BONNIE

Miss Angel's bonds are many;
Those bonds are falling due;
And this is why Miss Angel,
Gives us her promise true.
Gives us her promise true
Of things that she will do,
If we'll assume her mortgage,
And pay the interest, too.

Her coin is like the snowdrift,
It's fading fast away;
And now she's jumping sideways,
She's busy night and day.
She's busy night and day,
She has a steady goal,
And while she seems to love us
She's reaching for our "roll."

Like steps of the gum shoe gentry,
Is the fa' o' her fairy feet,
She'll trim us good and proper,
Though her voice is low and sweet,
She's out to get the "dough"
And that's the very reason
Miss Angel loves us so.
—With apologies to Max Welton.

CAME TO VISIT, REMAINED TO LIVE

Owen, 526 East Palmer avenue, for the past ten days, have leased a bungalow on East Broadway and will make Glendale their future home. ## THE BODY'S DEFENSES

DR. THOMASON, IN HEALTH LECTURE, POINTS OUT NATURE'S PLAN

An appreciative audience gave undivided attention to Dr. Thomason's of Los Angeles lectured on the above topic Thursday evening, at the Intermediate School auditorium.

"There is no subject," he said, "upon which I would rather talk than that of the natural defenses of the body. How the body maintains its healthy, normal activity is an intensely interesting, even fascinating, study."

Bob Ingersoll once made a statement to the effect that had he been privileged to be present when man was made, he would have made health catching instead of disease. According to Genesis, the Creator did so arrange man's organism that health is as contagious as disease, and it requires an effort to produce a diseased state, owing to the resistance of the natural defenders of the body.

Given a limited chance the tendency of the body is toward health in spite of the abuse heaped upon it, and it is often able to maintain health under all conditions and circumstances.

The question might be asked, "With so many people sick that doctors are kept busy night and day, how can health be more catching than disease?"

In the building of bridges, locomotives, etc., an important element is taken into account—that of factors of safety. A building is constructed to hold up more weight to the square inch than its capacity would indicate; the boiler of an engine will stand more pressure than would ordinarily be required.

From an anatomical and a physiological standpoint the human machine is most wonderful in its factors of safety.

There are two lungs in the body, though in California we find many with but one. In the event of the destruction of one lung, the other takes on compensation work.

Most people get along with less than half a liver. The condition of the liver affects one's disposition pronouncedly, the upward or downward curve of the mouth being a reliable indicator. Very few possess a normal liver.

The question was once asked of an epicure, "Is life worth living?" The answer was, "It all depends upon the liver."

Though born with two kidneys, some people are obliged later to get along with but one.

Doctors have removed half the small intestines or the entire colon of a patient where certain conditions exist, the system adapting itself to the curtailment.

Besides those mentioned, other organs possess elements of safety also. While no one can be said to possess more brains than necessary nor have too big or warm a heart for social and other requirements, each of these organs contains two distinct parts.

The blood contains white cells or corpuscles which represent the policemen or standing army of the body, with reserve forces for emergencies. There are about 800 red cells to one white cell; about five million of the latter to a minute drop of blood; six millions perish every second and the same number are manufactured in the same time.

A sliver, germ laden, enters a finger; the message is telegraphed to the brain by the sensory nerves and

STATE WELCOME HOME

ADMISSION DAY, SEPTEMBER 9, SET FOR ESPECIALLY HONORING SOLDIERS

The Board of Trustees is in receipt of a communication from the State Committee on Readjustment, San Francisco, requesting that publicity be given to the fact that it has been decided that on September 9th, when California celebrates the anniversary of its admission to the Union, the state will accord to her sons who served their country in the great war, the special honors of the day. It was finally decided to fix this day for the Welcome Home to the returning soldiers, on account of the fact that demobilization is not yet completed and that by that time it is hoped that practically all will have returned home. The Governor will probably issue a proclamation in due time announcing the celebration.

CHILDREN GIVE UNIQUE PROGRAM

An audience unexpectedly large in view of the many members absent on vacation outings came out to enjoy the program presented Sunday evening at the First Congregational Church by the children of the Sunday School. It was a wonderfully good program arranged and directed by Mesdames E. H. Willisford, Irene McReynolds and A. H. Chapman. A unique feature was the adaptation of Mother Goose rhymes by paraphrasing them to the work of missions and the Sunday School, and having such well-known and beloved characters as Jack Horner, Little Miss Muffet, Simple Simon and all the rest, impersonated by little folks appropriately costumed, each one of whom recited an adapted nursery rhyme. "The Shining of the Light" was also a very pretty number carried out by girls dressed to represent the various countries such as Africa, Japan, Turkey and India, led by America, who before beginning her recitation lighted the candle she carried from the candle placed at the foot of a large white cross which stood upon the platform. When she finished she turned to her neighbor and lighted the candle she carried from her own, as did each girl in turn, thus symbolizing in a very pretty manner the carrying of the light of the cross around the world. The program, as published in the Evening News of Saturday was carried out in detail and much enjoyed by a deeply interested audience. The children who took part were: William McRae, Jr., Dorothy Van Dyke, Genevieve King, Dorothy Beers, Clara Roberts, Joy Willisford, Nyla Chapman, Martha Siberel, Leona Colton, Marugerie Chappell, Winifred Parker, Mary Josephine Phillips, Eula Linkogel, Robert McReynolds, Irene Murdock, Guilia Smith, Charles Kausen, Stella Roberts, Gordon McRae, Nyla Chapman, David Chase, John Blake, Josephine Franklin, Virginia Buriff, Virginia Rowley, Viola Van Pelt, Stanley Eckart, Garland Murdock, Harry Bostick, Spencer Bellue, Gregory Pool, Grenada Wilson, Lucien Shaw, Joe Hall, Benjy Hogue, Cecil Chase, Ruth Elliott, Gladys Thistlewhite, Edith Busch, Dorothy Potter Lillian Owen, Dorothy Humans.

"THERE'S MANY A SLIP," ETC.

Lemon drops he had bought
For the girl whom he thought
Would be his'n.
And in a brief note
He thoughtlessly wrote:
"Sweets to the sweet,
Yours ever, Pete."

She ate them at morn
And quickly her corn
Had risen.
Fresh spinach, galore,
She dispatched to his door;
And in a brief note, she thoughtfully wrote:

"Greens to the green. Yours never,
Irene!"

QUESTIONS TO BE ANSWERED

July 16, 1919.

Mr. Howard Robertson,
President of Board of Public Service Commissioners,
Los Angeles, California.

Dear Sir:

The consolidation of the City of Glendale with the City of Los Angeles is now being agitated in our City, and many of our citizens are desirous of getting correct information upon those things which bear directly upon the reasons being urged for such consolidation. We, therefore, take the liberty of making some inquiry of the officials of the City of Los Angeles concerning these matters. The inquiries which we would like to have answered by you, or such other officials of your City as may be in a position to correctly state answers to the same, are as follows:

1. What would be the amount of the bond issue necessary to be voted to furnish the City of Glendale Aqueduct water, and by whom would such bonds have to be voted and upon what property would the same be a lien?
2. What method would be used by the City of Los Angeles to retire such bonds—that is, would they be retired out of the earnings of the Water Department of the City of Los Angeles, or would they be retired by taxing the property affected by such bond issue, whether that be a district or otherwise?
3. What is the amount of bonds of the City of Los Angeles that the City of Glendale must assume if consolidation between the two cities takes place?
4. To what extent will the property in the City of Glendale be taxed to pay off the bonds of the City of Los Angeles assumed upon consolidation, basing your answer upon the present method of retiring such bonds?
5. What would be the amount in dollars and cents that the people of Glendale would have to pay annually to pay the interest and retire the bonds of the City of Los Angeles assumed by the City of Glendale upon consolidation, basing your answer upon the present method of raising the necessary funds, and assuming, for the purpose of your answer, the assessed valuation of Glendale to be $8,000,000.00?
6. There now exists a bond indebtedness of the City of Glendale incurred before the consolidation of Tropico with Glendale, and not assumed by Tropico, amounting to $323,000, incurred for the purpose of acquiring municipal light and water systems. What method of retirement of these bonds would be followed by the City of Los Angeles—that is, would the same be retired out of the earnings of such public utilities, or would they be retired by taxing the property within the City limits of Glendale as it existed at the time of voting such bonds?
7. There are at present two municipal improvement districts in the City of Glendale covering the territory formerly the City of Tropico and formed for the purpose of acquiring municipally owned light and water plants. The amount of bonds for the two districts aggregates $99,500. What method of retirement of these bonds would be followed by the City of Los Angeles—that is, would the same be retired out of the earnings of said public utilities, or would the same be retired by taxing the property within such district?

The matters referred to in the above questions are of vital importance to the citizens of Glendale, and in order that we may have the correct answers from those authorized to speak on these questions, we ask you to kindly put your replies to the same in writing.

Respectfully yours,

Signed,

FRANK L. MUHLEMAN,
HARTLEY SHAW,

Trustees of the City of Glendale.

This process removes impurities and disease germs, and still retains the life of the water by preserving the salts and compounds which the human system must have to insure good health. The process adds no chemical or substance of any kind to the water, but uses the selective action of High Voltage Electricity. The water, no matter what its condition before this treatment, comes out as clear as a diamond and as pure as the morning dew.

THE BODY'S DEFENSES

millions of white cells are ordered out to battle, white cells vs. bacteria. If the system is in normal condition, no bacteria is able to resist the white cells. In the battle some cells lose their lives, their dead bodies together with the bacteria, forming the pus thrown out.

To the physician, the number of white cells present in the blood is an indicator of the true condition of the patient.

A little boy was suddenly taken ill, the symptoms being pain in the side, vomiting and rise of temperature. A test of a drop of blood showed a count of but 29,000 white cells, an indication of pus infection. An operation for the removal of the appendix was performed, saving the boy's life, the appendix being on the point of rupture.

The number of white cells present is a significant indication in other diseases, also, as peritonitis, pleurisy, pneumonia, etc., as recovery depends upon the cells' action.

Under the influence of a drop of alcohol the cells move sluggishly while an increased dose causes them to lose all interest in the fray—they are asleep on the beat.

In case of pneumonia, if the subject is an alcoholic his chances for recovery are in nearly every instance nil; the white cells being paralyzed, inert, inactive and unable to deal with the bacteria.

When through infection, toxins find access to the blood nature proceeds to form an antitoxin which neutralizes the toxin and establishes an immunity to that particular toxin. This immunity often lasts the rest of the life time, as in the diseases of small-pox, mumps, etc. This knowledge of antitoxins has proven invaluable in the anticipation and treatment of disease, during epidemics and war conditions saving thousands of lives.

Formerly diphtheria was very fatal, the mortality of those affected being 50 to 60 per cent. Serum therapy has furnished a means of dealing with the disease and reducing the mortality to 5 per cent.

To obtain this antitoxin a horse is selected without taint or disease and kept well groomed and in normal condition. A small injection of the diphtheria germ is made and at stated intervals the dose increased until the antitoxin is established and the animal immunized against diphtheria.

This serum from the horse's blood is taken for use upon human beings. In the case of a child ill with diphtheria, some of this serum is injected which combined with the insufficient amount of antitoxin already formed in the child's blood, serves to lift the little one above the power of the disease, while if left to battle alone the patient would have succumbed.

As a measure against infection the blood must be kept pure, properly circulating and charged with oxygen, iron and nourishment for the tissues.

Another means of defense is the glandular system. By means of an infected sliver in the finger, for example, bacteria gain access to the blood, and the glands under the arm may become swollen. This swelling is an effort of nature to increase the capacity of the glands for dealing with the germs which are intercepted from the organ of the body, and filtered out by the lymph stream.

Fifteen or twenty years ago it was the custom to remove swollen glands from the neck, but now this is not done unless the glands are much softened and broken down. So long as they remain intact, the application of alternate hot and cold water will cause the glands to resume natural size.

The tonsils are glands that guard against infection and the number of removals could be greatly lessened. The mere fact of enlargement does not mean disease.

Especially is it important that the tonsils be retained up to the age of fifteen years, as children are more susceptible to infection if the tonsils are removed. After that age it is not safe to retain questionable tonsils, as other disorders may arise as a consequence of tonsil infection, such as toothache, intestinal and gall bladder trouble, appendicitis and so-called rheumatism.

There are also special glands of interest. One of these, the thyroid gland, in the throat, is an important toxin destroyer. An excess secretion of the thyroid gland causes an over-stimulation of the body, and a form of goitre, exophthalmic, may be present. Those with a deficiency of secretion are usually idiotic and slow in movement.

By the administration of the powdered thyroid gland of the sheep the activity of the human thyroid gland is usually established in a few months. This should be done, however, only upon the advice of a physician.

Whether one shall age prematurely or not depends upon the action of the thyroid gland.

The symmetrical development of the two halves of the body is presided over by a small gland in the brain, which prevents abnormal growth of one side of the body. An over-secretion from this gland results in an enlargement of the head, of hands and bones of the body and increases the blood pressure.

An over-secretion of the adrenal glands in the kidneys is a cause of hardening of the arteries. One of the causes of over-stimulation is the use of tobacco. Worry and depressing emotions are other causes.

Another defense of the body is the skin.

Fever, usually regarded as an enemy is in reality a protection, representing increased activity of the body furnace. By the increased heat the toxins are more readily destroyed which accounts for the better health one often experiences after an attack of typhoid.

In treating fever the object is not to combat the temperature, but to control it, keeping it below the danger point by the use of the usual fire extinguisher—water.

The defensive power of pain in warning of disease is seldom appreciated. A headache may mean the consumption of too much nerve force. A stomach ache in a small boy may mean "avoid green apples." A toothache may direct you to the dentist. Remove the cause and the pain will cease.

Job, the patient, speaks of the chastening power of pain in saving from disaster.

The natural functions of the body tend to health as the flower turns to the sun. By co-operating with nature's effort one can possess a sound mind in a sound body.

Right doing is its own reward. Nothing pays such high returns, both in this life and in the life to come, as obedience to natural laws. If one has ignorantly violated these laws, nature forgives and seeks to repair the wrong.

A Venetian nobleman, forty-two years of age, was told by his physicians to prepare for death. Instead of preparing for death, he resolved to prepare to live and did so by reforming his habits of living. In six months he was much more vigorous, and after a few years of the simple life, he was strong and well, living to the age of one hundred-four years.

Nature heals disease and often leaves no scar, if the right path is followed. While it may seem a hardship to give up some supposedly good things in life, in the end it will be manifest that the God of nature requires only the surrender of the undesirable.
